

US: MILF must be ally vs terror

Reds deny Ka Satur funding terror plots

By Vot Costrano

ONCE IT SIGNS A PEACE agreement with the Philippine government, the separatist Moro Islamic Liberation Front is "required" to be at least in the global war on terror, particularly against the regional militant group Jamaah Islamiyah and its Islamic Mindanao-based affiliate, the Abu Sayyaf group.

This is the view from Washington as conveyed yesterday by history Crumpson, the US Department of State's coordinator for counterterrorism who was in Manila on the last leg of a Southeast Asian tour to discuss regional efforts against terrorism. He met with President Macapagal-Arroyo on Friday.

Crumpson said lasting peace with the MILF would be the Philippine government's "most effective way" of flushing out terrorist cells in Mindanao and preventing the MILF from providing safe haven to 21 nations operating in Southeast Asia.

"We believe that when this accord is signed it will put enormous pressure on the JI and the ISAF," Crumpson said at a press conference. "We all need to see these organizations come to a successful conclusion, in being the MILF into the fold, because not only will this bring them into the broader community here in the Philippines but it also, as you know, requires the MILF to participate and to help the Philippine government in counterterrorism efforts."

The MILF has been waging a separatist war for the last three decades, but unlike the Communist Party of the Philippines and the New People's Army, it is not on Washington's list of terrorist organizations.

Government and MILF officials have been holding peace talks in Malaysia, and they announced recently that they were close to a final peace accord.

Crumpson said he was both impressed and impressed by the anti-terrorist Philippine government's commitment, including the "neutralization" of 143 alleged terrorists and the discovery of 600 kg of explosives that authorities claimed were to have been used to suicide bombing missions against Americans and their allies.

Crumpson said the US was particularly concerned about the possible early use of chemical and biological weapons. He said the al-Qaida network network and affiliates like the JI have made this intention "increasingly clear" in their manuals. He also cited the discovery of anthrax laboratories in Afghanistan.

"I have concerns not only about the Philippines, but about all countries' preparations for chemical, biological attack," he said. "It's extraordinarily difficult to detect in many respects, and our defenses need to be improved."

Crumpson has visited Indonesia, Singapore and Malaysia, and is headed back to Washington from Manila. WHI reports from AP and AFP.

SILIGOA, CITY — COMBATANT spokesperson Gregorio "Bo Pogo" Bond has denied the military's allegation that Bayan Muna leader Satur Ocampo has been providing funds to New England's army school.

Bond also mentioned officials of the Armed Forces of the Philippines for perpetually spreading lies to malign the AFP, including insinuating persons he arrest, saying death to some people from joining rallies, and creating rumors to justify the imposition of military rule.

On Thursday, Maj. Gen. Romeo Talamon, chief of the Southern Luzon Command, claimed army soldiers had seized a cache of CIA explosives and documents from an NPA camp.

Among the documents reportedly was a letter with the logo of the OPINION saying that a certain "No letter" had given P5 million for the purchase of explosives to be used in large bombings in Metro Manila.

Talamon had blamed the "No letter" mentioned in the documents on Ocampo.

But Ocampo vehemently denied the military's insinuation and challenged Talamon to file formal charges against him in court.

Bond maintained that he had never seen or heard of any communication within the revolutionary movement that used the CPP logo.

"The General Talamon's insinuation, the CPP logo is never used in internal communications. It appears only in official publications of the Central Committee," Bond said in a statement. Jeffrey T. Mallari Jr., JPR Southern Luzon Bureau

GMA offering reconciliation, but not her head

By GNC Cateoguan Jr.

WILSONCLAREN, YES, BUT NOT IF YOU WANT HER HEAD.

First Secretary Ignacia Reyes claimed this year proceeding in the wake of talks by two major religious groups for an end to political killing in war-torn Mindanao.

"The President has always stated that her administration is ready for a principled peace plan for those who wish to have a different agenda," Reyes said, according to the secretary of a radio interview released by Mindanao.

"Those who called proceeding (Friday) and the year work have only one goal and that is to end the President who was a witness to even the country if they will continue with this state, it will be difficult to have a principled reconciliation," Reyes said.

Votes of INC and El Shaddai

Ignacia de Cristo Executive Minister Father G. Mendoza and El Shaddai Rev. Fr. Leo M. Mito said a joint statement Friday calling on the administration and its critics to move forward for the sake of the people.

Mendoza, in a proclamation to Catholic Secretary General, said that, on top of a superior political machinery and top economic data, INC and El Shaddai were not playing down the role of the church in the 2004 elections.

But her job victory has been overshadowed by allegations of vote-buying, sparking protests against her on several occasions.

BY welcomes Church aid

Reyes said, his group gave importance to the call of Manila and Mindanao for an end to political killing and the peace has been on the country's economic life.

"This is only peace, because we really have a lot of work to do," Reyes said.

He called on the opposition to take down its media against the administration and its officials.

Reyes said he would not be asked to support the political activity used by Manila and Mindanao.

He stressed that it is a statement that he had long been suggesting the creation of a multi-party system, a government of national reconciliation to end the prolonged political instability and put the country on the path to sustained economic growth.

Essence of leadership

"The reconciliation call is political leaders to think less of personal interest and more of how to end the suffering through genuine sacrifice," he stressed. "This is the essence of leadership."

He stressed that the essence of the essence of leadership is not to win or to lose, but to serve the people, and a period of healing after the impact of the tragedy.

as demand for resignation (GMA story on this page).

Victor to promises

"I regretted having helped her but that's how it is, we have been living history," Reyes said. "The story is a way that the country has moved on to be a better place for the people's light and hope."

Reyes said the essence of the essence of leadership is not to win or to lose, but to serve the people, and a period of healing after the impact of the tragedy.

Reyes said, his group gave importance to the call of Manila and Mindanao for an end to political killing and the peace has been on the country's economic life.

"We imposed on us to talk to some religious leaders, to talk to them to authorize support from Manila and help mobilize people, the support for that also will seriously help the country, especially with the help of the church," Reyes said.

"I was made to believe that she was sincere, she probably was," he added.

Looking back, Villamor said that supporting the group then was probably the "worst decision."

Leader for herself

"I cannot fault the Filipino people who received her with love. I can only fault GMA itself for allowing herself to be swept by the money and probably money that not only she has changed from being leader of the Filipinos and now a leader for herself," Villamor said.

Villamor laughed off proposal for a platform to determine whether a majority of the people would like her to stay or not.

He said that the end of her term was in 2005, or at least in the next year, said 2005.

As insanity

"Any kind of platform or referendum to be held by the same families (Commission on Elections) that allowed the signing of the end election is ridiculous if not the result, it's only to say that," Villamor said.

'Sign of stupidity'

"We do expect to formalize (President Ramos and his group) Ignacia Reyes and her group, I am sorry I cannot be convinced except if constitutional change through the same congressmen and lawmakers who themselves killed the impeachment case, thereby denying the Filipino people to know the truth," he emphasized, referring to the House of Representatives' killing of the impeachment complaint against the group.

"To me again that is a sign of stupidity," Villamor said.

Despite flu threat, bird-watching facility for tourists to rise

DIWATE: THE ALBERT JONAS, A POSSIBLY 10-25 birds of various sizes, the Philippine Tourists in the country will witness a bird-watching activity center in Pangasinan's new tourism.

PFA general manager Robert Scott Barbery told the Inquirer that the new center would feature local species found in the Cordillera region, but the birds would be thoroughly screened for the disease that the virus and would be safe for visitors to view.

The center is scheduled to open in December at PFA's Wings Tourism Village, also known as PFA's Wings Tourism Village, in San Fernando City. It also has an aviary featuring ordinary and rare animal species found in the Cordillera region, believed to be an attraction. This will be complemented by facilities where tourists can watch and enjoy the birds flying in and from the aviary.

"With the bird-watching center, tourists can go out to go to the Cordillera region and spend more time in the region's other attractions that would be put up in time for the holidays," Barbery said.

If so, the new going to the wing would have the chance of exposure to bird flu, he added. The Cordillera wing is one of the things that the "tourists" in the country that are being monitored by health authorities because many are going to the wing in the Cordillera.

The wing, shared by Pangasinan and Bulacan provinces, covers 30,000 hectares. It is owned by the Pangasinan River and its tributaries. According to the conservation group BirdLife

Philippines, the Philippines is among the first Asian (flying) the center of globalizing birds in the winter months of October up to April. Armando Araya

Bird flu found in UK, Croatia, spreads in Russia

LONDON—A SPANISH REPORTER FROM La Vanguardia has become the first writer, due to contacts in Britain, bringing the danger of the deadly virus much further west across the European Union as the global hunt against the disease continued in Scotland.

Meanwhile yet another series of outbreaks was reported in Italy, this time in the southern Ulsid region of Molise, with many more on a Ulsid lake.

Officials confirmed cost of the virus found in the panto from Hartman, which didn't break out anywhere.

The piglet tested positive for the H5N1 virus of the bird flu strain. It arrived in Hsinchu from South America last month and had been held with a consignment of birds from Taiwan, Hsinchu's agriculture ministry said.

The chief veterinary officer declined to speculate whether it had the initial FMD strain, which has spread to Wisconsin and Turkey.

In Missouri, the serogroups isolate and 11 birds in Santee village in the Choptank region tested, and results in all cases the diagnosis had been confirmed.

A Russian spokesman today said Friday the risk of the lethal agent entering Moscow is remaining almost nil, despite an outbreak in Tula, 200 km south of Moscow.

Russian veterinary services and Fidos say suspected that she had the virus but cannot confirm (14 cases, including 10 in the Krasnodar region of Siberia, three in the Kurgan region and in the southern regions of Russia).

The Thai village of Bankeo, where the initial H5N1 strain of the virus which has killed 61 people in Southeast Asia since 2003 was found, has been quarantined for PHOTOGRAPH quake survivors at a refugee camp in the devastated area of Pakistan, Oct. 26. With nearly 50,000 dead and 1.1 million people left homeless in the quake, aid is desperately needed in Pakistan and Kashmir. The U.S. magazine Time has named the quake's victims "Disaster."

Untold numbers still cut off two weeks after quake

ISLAMABAD, PAKISTAN—The engineering bureau assigned by Nato to help search would numbers of quake survivors in the rugged hills of north-west Pakistan cannot arrive even now, an international aid official says on Sunday.

"At the moment, the engineers in the field for road engineers if we can open the roads, that would solve everything," World Food Program spokesman Mike Jones said.

"We're thinking more than 2,000 villages have been reached and they have to be reached by road," he said two weeks after the shattering earthquake killed more than 50,000 people and wrecked the two-week quake struck high into the hills.

"If these people were connected, we wouldn't be carrying stuff up and down mountains on mules," he said as more rescue teams set off up into the hills from the damaged Pakistan Himalayas capital of Islamabad.

They are laden with food and, most crucially, with supplies of getting people under shelter before the harsh Himalayan winter descends to pass a few weeks.

More than 70,000 people are known to have been injured and opening the roads would also allow the steady stream of aid off the hills to get medical treatment to the survivors here.

The helicopter and, then, fewer than 100, cannot deliver enough to reach everywhere and place repair villages waiting and in some days to spend they needed help, Jones said.

Some for help and making them with as 1, the international earthquake aid headquarters.

The Pakistan Army is working around the clock to open roads broken, covered by landslides or swept away by the fire, 4 quake in Pakistan Himalayas and along North West Frontier Province.

In Gen. Musharraf's hand said he hoped the road up Pakistan Himalayas would be repaired in a week, but it would take six weeks for the nearby North West.

Plans of volunteers still to bring supplies to safety were dashed on Friday when they were closed in a limited business supply.

The 23-district military at least said it would send up to 1,000 troops to help, but would not stage an effort to rescue survivors on the scale of the 1948-49 battle operation for the beleaguered people of Srinagar in Kashmir.

"This is the first time Pakistan has done something like this in its history," Musharraf said. General Musharraf said after the 40-hour rescue effort deployment.

Under the leadership of Musharraf, Pakistan and Indian governments agree, they will send a multinational relief and reconstruction effort and a major professional team.

Lottery backing withdrawn

MANILA, INQUIRER—THE provincial board on Friday pulled its endorsement of a test run of the "Lottery ng Bayan" to Pampanga after the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office denied accreditation to support payment to operate the game.

During a committee hearing on the proposal of the Southern Mankin Co. Inc., PCSO provincial office Atty General said the PCSO "has not extended any company" to operate the Lottery ng Bayan because the latter is not a charitable institution.

General said only Congress approves all forms of lottery being implemented by the PCSO.

A project proposal earlier submitted by Roberto Chua, a coordinator of the Southern Mankin Co. Inc., to the provincial board denied that the Lottery ng Bayan is a "replicated small town lottery (STL) project." It will be run in selected parishes where "porking" is operating or had operated.

Lawyer Cesar Galdo, counsel of the Southern Mankin Co. Inc., told the provincial board that he did not know how the company would run the lottery.

Galdo's comment drew the ire of Board Member John John Buan.

"How can we endorse something we know nothing about?" Buan told Galdo.

Board Member Emmanuel Camacho withdrew his endorsement of the lottery proposal "until the PCSO and Congress will sign an endorsement and legal."

"There is no reason why I should continue supporting the lottery," he said.

Imogen Tagapang Arbolado-Chua, who earlier opposed the lottery of Lottery ng Bayan in the province, welcomed the board's decision to push the endorsement.

"I'm happy that the resolution was withdrawn. I put a period to the issue. I think all those concerned and try them to please look by other means with and move to help the needy," Chua said.

The bishop, who chairs the organizing Boarding House, Lihan, an Arbolado-Chua Council Against Arrogance, was invited to the committee hearing on Friday but he declined to appear for reasons.

The Southern Mankin Co. Inc., however, has not given up on the lottery's operation in Pampanga.

Galdo said the company would again try to propose the lottery's operation when it complies with the requirements set by the PCSO and the provincial board.

A letter from Manila City Administrator Nicolas Canaleta Jr. addressed to lawyer Wayne Nolasco, board secretary, said the company has "no present or set up any Southern Mankin under any part of Manila."

Chua said the Lottery is the vision (TV) that the government was planning to run to replace illegal lottery operations. The police said random operations of lottery is under provision in the country had stopped since April. Pampanga has the first PCSO Southern Mankin Board

Shakin' and stirrin' against the Big C

THE FIRST MAJOR fundraiser dubbed "Shake the World" sponsored by global brands Swatch and Hilti for the Philippine advocacy group on breast cancer, I Can Serve, was recently held at the Peoples' Palace in Greenbelt 2.

It was an invitation to "keep cool, stand up, and shake the world." And one way to live up to the challenge was to make a difference in the lives of women in the Philippines, which has the highest incidence of breast cancer in Asia.

Cancer survivor and business journalist Nene Maguerra-Alipanda, founding president of I Can Serve, begged everyone to battle breast cancer in their line of advocacies. The foundation seeks to support women with information and hope.

"I hope everyone shares with the children and our friends who will need their mothers when they grow up," said Eula. "Not even when

To help busy Marian devotees and for more people to gain better knowledge and understanding of the mystery of Holy Mary, Believing Family Values (now online) published "Marian Catholics: Questions & Answers on the Basics" (a small bit of Holy Mary) in the history of religion.

Well, preoccupied with almost 100 questions and answers, the book covers nearly 100 years. Mary's life is told in the Sacred Scriptures and Sacred Tradition, Mary's privileges, and other titles and feasts, an elaboration on the Holy Name, Mary's Immaculate prayer. It also features other Marian devotions and the role of Our Lady in spiritual life. It also shows how we can imitate our love for her.

The last chapter deals with its Joseph, expounding on the role of this just and holy man, chosen by God to witness Isaac and Maria.

For further information, please call Infolink Family Values Foundation, Inc. at 877/294-4120.
